The Mission:

Bring about the Peace of Christ

The Church, as explained by the Second Vatican Council, is by her very nature missionary, since according to the plan of the Father, she has her origin in the mission of the Son and the Holy Spirit. Today's Gospel reading tells us of the missionary journey of the disciples. The persons, who had lived with Jesus and understood his mission and his work, go out to continue his mission. These ordinary people took with them no great plan, no set speech, and no practical manual to tell them what to do. They brought only their faith, their trust and their experience of Jesus. Jesus appointed seventy two disciples and sent them on ahead of him in pairs to every town and place where he himself intended to go. The disciples go in pairs and not as isolated individuals. The number two adds to the witness value which required the testimony of two people. They go out two by two in order to testify to the unity of the disciples of Christ.

Jesus tells them that they need to be serious about seeking and spreading the message of peace. So He tells them not to indulge in distractions and not to weigh themselves down with all kinds of bag and baggage. Their security is not in material possessions, such as money, property, protection and comfort. His advice is that as they go proclaiming peace and the kingdom they take no walking staff, or a travelling bag or sandals, but trust fully in the Divine Providence. The work of the disciples is not going to be easy as they will be required to enter very precarious situations with absolute minimum equipment. They will be like lambs being sent out to work among wolves. The urgency of the mission is captured by the mandate that they go in poverty and emptiness and not greet anyone on the way, something that would appear very strange in a culture dominated by gestures of hospitality. The mission was dangerous and difficult, indeed challenging to the disciples. The seventy two returned from their mission rejoicing and excited. They discovered they could do the same things that Jesus was doing. They could do the healing, drive away demons and even bring dead to life. They were the extension of Jesus in every possible way. They tell Jesus that even the demons submitted themselves to them in his Name. To this, Jesus answers: these signs of immediate success are not the most important aspects of the ministry. Most important is that the names of the disciples are written in heaven, a symbol of salvation. Jesus foresaw the danger of his disciples entering into a mood of self-sufficient arrogance.

The core of their message must be peace. They in reality explain what Jesus is about and what the kingdom of God is about. This was the message at the Nativity and later at the resurrection. One word that occurs and is repeated in all three readings today is "peace". Peace is not merely the absence of war or maintaining balance of power between adversaries. It is the tranquillity of order, it is the effect of justice and it is the effect of charity. Isaiah, in the First Reading, speaks of God sending "flowing peace, like a river". Paul speaks of the peace and mercy that come to all who become that transformed person in Jesus Christ. And, in the Gospel, Jesus sends his disciples as lambs in the midst of wolves, and tells them to proclaim peace and to bring peace with them to every house they enter. This peace is not dependent on outside circumstances. It can exist even when we are surrounded by storms. It is the peace Jesus experienced after his prayer in the garden. It is the peace Jesus experienced on the cross in the midst of sufferings. It is the peace that Paul experiences, even though he has had his share of the "cross of our Lord Jesus Christ" and who bears in his own body the marks of Jesus' pain and suffering. So, our task as Christians is to be bringers of peace. It is a peace that a close following of Jesus can bring. It is a peace that will transform our lives and make us available for others. Finally, peace is oneness with God's will. It includes three things: first, establish a community of love. Second, heal those who are sick. Thirdly, announce that the kingdom of God is close at hand. Ultimately proclaim Jesus through our lives.

Like those seventy two persons we too are called to proclaim the kingdom of God through our lives. It is possible for us to do it through our simple acts of caring, by lending a listening ear to the sick and lonely, by extending a helping hand to the helpless and elderly and giving them that consolation and healing. Then our name also will be written in heaven and we will be able to rejoice in the lord and rejoice with the lord.

RESPONSORIAL PSALM: Let all the earth cry out to God with joy.

St Vincent de Paul Modbury Conference

Four calls this week that we were able to assist with; demand seems to be settling back to a level similar to pre-pandemic conditions.

Most of the requests are from repeat “business”.

It’s now a year since we were able to source our bread from Baker’s Delight at TTP; we can collect their baked surplus every fortnight, for which we’re very grateful.

Our immediate needs in the pantry are Margarine, Peanut Butter, Coffee and Tinned Carrots/Taters.

It will greatly help if any or all of these items could be placed in the Vinnies’ collection basket.

Your Parish Needs You!

The parish is desperately in need of volunteers in a range of areas.

Our most pressing needs are:

Sacristans to set up before Mass, most particularly for weekday Masses at both Holy Trinity and St John XXIII, but also on Sundays.

Training will be provided.

People to take Holy Communion to the sick and housebound: this group is dwindling due to age and ill health.

If you are able to help out with this wonderful ministry the parishioners in need of a visit would be so grateful as would your parish.

Training for altar servers: this work was previously done by members of the Legion of Mary but they now need your assistance.

Perhaps there are some old (or not so old) altar servers who could help with this.

Whatever time you are able to provide to serve God and His people would be most gratefully received.

Aboriginal and Torres Strait Islander
Sunday
3 July 2022

Every year, on the first Sunday in July, Catholics come together across Australia to acknowledge and celebrate the gifts of Australia’s First Peoples in the Catholic Church.

This year is particularly important because of the need to reconnect due to the COVID 19 Pandemic and its impact on the ways in which we interact and make contact with one another.

For 2022 NATSICC is asking for everyone to come together, but also consider practical ways in which they can support Australia's First Peoples - not just for this special day, but every day.

NATSICC APPEAL

A Special Collection will be taken up this weekend, 2nd & 3rd July to support the National Aboriginal and Torres Strait Islander Catholic Council which works to share the gifts of faith, culture and perseverance with our indigenous sisters and brothers.

Processions & Collections

We will be recommencing Entrance and Offertory Processions and having the first and second collections during Mass from next week. Commentators may ask you to assist with the Offertory Procession and Collectors will be needed at all weekend Masses.
