Heal Country

Aboriginal and Torres Strait Islander Sunday 4 July 2021
Celebrating the gifts of Aboriginal and Torres Strait Islander Catholics

Every year, Catholics come together across Australia to acknowledge and celebrate the gifts of Australia's First peoples. This year is particularly important following the COVID 19 Pandemic and its impact on the ways in which we interacted and made contact with one another. The theme for NATSICC this year is – Heal Country.

Today our world is in need of healing – environmentally, spiritually and socially. We must all come together as a global community to fight the injustices of inequality, racism and environmental damage.

Familiarity Breeds Contempt!

Today's gospel introduces Jesus as a prophet and explains how prophets and other messengers from God inevitably suffer rejection. The gospel challenges us to face rejection and hardship with prophetic courage. It was natural that Jesus should visit his hometown, Nazareth, as a rabbi with a band of disciples. On the Sabbath day, Jesus went to the local synagogue. In the synagogue there was no definite person to give the address. Any distinguished stranger present who had a message to give might be asked by the ruler of the synagogue to speak. Since Jesus' fame as a preacher and miracle worker in other places of Galilee had reached Nazareth, Jesus was invited to read from the Prophets and explain the text. During his "Inaugural Address" or "Mission Statement," Jesus took upon himself the identity of a prophet, different from the image of a miracle worker that people wished to see. The first reaction of the people in the synagogue to Jesus' words was one of astonishment. Luke says they were "amazed at the gracious words that came from his lips." But Mark says that they asked one another: "Where did this man get all this? They knew him only as a carpenter from a poor family, with no formal training in Mosaic Law. Certainly, they thought Jesus had gone far beyond the place of a humble carpenter. Jesus' neighbours did not expect this "carpenter's son," to be skilled in interpreting the Scriptures. They also could not understand how a mere carpenter could be their political Messiah who would liberate them from Roman rule and re-establish the Davidic kingdom of power and glory. The local townsfolk also objected that Jesus had no distinguished lineage, identifying Jesus as "the son of Mary" rather than with the traditional title, "son of Joseph" ("Bar Joseph") title. Such a reference could be seen as an insult, because men in that culture were identified by who their fathers were (see John 1:45). Jesus responded: "No prophet is accepted in his native place." Those who accept the call of God and seek to follow Him will face indifference, hostility, contempt, scorn, weakness, hardship, persecution, insults and rejection.

Rejected, is a term that we hear very much in the modern world. Your application for the particular job is rejected, your application for a particular fund is rejected due to such and such reasons... This is a term that communicates a lot. Feeling rejection is something that people all over the world find hard to put up with, especially when it is from known and close ones.

Today's gospel tells us very clearly that Jesus as the Lord and master experienced rejection from his own people. He did feel that rejection and that is the reason why he said: "A prophet is without honour only in his own country." They thought that they knew him too well and that was the reason why they could not accept him. They thought that they knew his father and mother, they thought that they knew his kith and kin; then how can he be the redeemer. They thought they knew too much of him when in fact they knew only very little. The people were "full of themselves." There was no room in their minds for a new insight; or any new revelation. And "familiarity breeds contempt" as the saying goes.

God stands rejected even today in the modern world, because people think that they know too much of everything. We live in a world that has gained advancement in all aspects. We are able to give scientific explanations to most of the happenings in the world. In this context what is the scope for a supreme almighty God. God finds no scope because we think we know too much. God created this world very much suitable for every living being's life but in the process of knowing too much we have made the place very much unsuitable for life. All this happens because we think we know too much and we go our own ways. God surely stands rejected, even today, when we move against the plans that he has for us; that he has for our humanity.

Sometimes we do behave like the people of Nazareth in our relationship with others, especially with those who are close to us and those who are known to us. There are occasions when we think that we know too much about others, and look at others with our prejudices and preconceived notions. We reject others and think negatively of them because we think that what we know is the absolute truth. When we do any of these let us remember that God stands rejected in his people. Yes, in a way we can say that God stands defeated and puzzled. We believe in a God who accepts everyone in the way they are. We believe in a God who subjected himself to human rejection so that we will once again be accepted as sons and daughters. We believe in a God who does not judge us according to our deeds, who sends rain and sunshine on the good and the bad alike. If that is the way God has shown us and taught us the levels of acceptance, we should also learn from that to be accepting of others with their own problems and difficulties in life.
